Secret Radio

"Real power begging where secrecy begins."

Hannah Arendt

by Informbureau, Ligna and Goethe Institut in Sofia

Our lives are controlled. We deliver everyday by mobile phones, credit cards, e-mail a lot of data for someone, we don't know it is there: the secret service. Artist from Informbureau and Ligna asks, why the state maintain a monopoly for secret agency? Do we have to organize - like the bourgeoisie 300 years ago - new secret societies?

Secret Radio invites the audience to become secret agents in one of the most controlled and transparent spaces, prototypes of future public space: the shopping mall. Everyone would be lead by the secret radio on his personal mission through the mall, meeting other agents, trying techniques to conceal the own activity and questioning the power structure of our society. How would a state, a society functions without secret service? Multiple secret techniques!
